A French Actress' Troubles.

The Seine Tribunal had an interesting case to dispose of last week. Mlle. de N. is a remarkably beautiful woman, but she is also one of those who, not believing beauty to be adorned the most when not adorned at all, hankered after diamonds wherewith to enhance her attractions. She was a pupil of the Conservatory; she made an appearance, a very brief one on the Parisian stage, and then as her success was not more than middling, flitted Eastward to St. Petersburg, where she hoped for a more favorable appreciation of her talent. You know that for a French actress St. Petersburg is as California used to be for French fast men in impecunious straits, a certain gold placer. So it is, usually; Russians are generous; they lavish their money on lovely women, but their prodigality is not platonic; they spend their coin and bestow their jewels freely, but always in return for something which Mlle. de N. was not disposed to grant.

Her charms made a sensation; munificent proposals were laid at her feet, yet, as they were coupled with a condition to which this young lady sternly answered "No!" her adorers became discouraged, and she returned to her native land as pure and as poor as when she left it. Still the one idea remained in her mind; no actress can succeed unless she be covered with diamonds; diamonds she must have somehow, and as she was determined to remain a good woman, diamonds she would procure for herself. As a rule it is difficult to set one's self up in jewelry without capital, but a friend helped her out of the difficulty. The friend—a lady friend—knew one of those "business agents" whose specialty is to cash post obits and "lancer les femmes"—start pretty women is about the translation—who would accommodate her she, thought.

Benjamin L. was consulted. He was agreeable, and Lucile's cravings were satisfied. The Jew handed over a pair of ear rings, a necklace, and a bracelet, taking in exchange her promissory notes for 35,000 francs. Mlle. de N. to use her own words "swam in the joy;" she glittered in the proscenium at the "first" of every new piece, bouquets and perfumed notes fairly rained to her address, and, as not one breath of scandal had ever sullied her reputation, she, was, they say, on the eve of matrimony, when alas! she fell ill. Three months after she had signed the bit of stamped paper she was stricken down with typhoid fever, the diamonds went to the pawnbroker to pay for food and physic, the bills were presented and protested, and, to cap the climax of her woes, the Jew lodged a complaint against her for swindling. He had spoiled the Egyptian by writing on his receipt three words of which she had not understood the importance: Vendus a condition.

"Sold on condition," made her operation at the Mont de Piete a penal offense, and her arrest was ordered. Luckily, the magistrate charged with the prosecution of this affair had seen others like it, in which the real victims were not the jewelry venders, and so demanded that an expert should make an estimate of the value of the merchandise. The expert's opinion modified singularly the position, as the diamonds were declared upon oath, not to exceed in value 11,000 francs and the judge considering 24,000 francs to be an exorbitant price for the accommodation granted to the actress, lodged the Jew in jail on the charge of abuse of confidence. Still, this fraud, although it helps Mlle. de N. does not exonerate her completely; proceedings will be abandoned if she can and will return the jewelry to its original owner; if she is unable so to do, justice must take its course, and the Procureur of the Republic will prosecute both parties.

"Aunt Libby," a colored woman, formerly belonging to Henry Clay, died in Lexington last Wednesday, aged one hundred and five years. Since she became free she has been taken care of by Mrs. James B. Clay, who provided her with everything to make her comfortable. Lexington Gazette.

The third costume was simplicity itself, being made of gray cashmere, without any trimming, and worn with a white muslin apron, fichu and cap, and a chate-laine hanging on the left side.

Boston Post.

A little boy, residing in town in this State, annoyed his parents by frequently running away from home. One day the mother sharply reproved him and closed her words of admonishment by remarking:

"Only bad little boys run away from home."

The little fellow pondered over this a moment and then said:

"Well, mamma, Jesus ran away when he was a little boy."

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

FRIDAY EVENING, FEB. 24, 1882.

THE Legislature is getting along very slowly with its work, and all the really important legislation is yet to be passed upon—the apportionment, penitentiary, railroads, revenue laws and appropriations for the charitable institutions. The session will probably last until the middle of April.

THE regular annual reunion of the Mexican War Veterans was held at Lexington on the 22nd inst., with an attendance of about one hundred. A committee was appointed to memorialize congress for a pension to all soldiers of that war. An address was delivered by Col. J. G. Craddock, Gen. S. S. Fry and others.

THE Government is making some little headway in the Star Route cases and appears to be pushing the prosecution in good faith. In addition to the contractors who have been indicted for conspiracy, a number of other persons who made false affidavits when they became bondsmen for some of the route agents, have been indicted also. At all events the thieves seem to have good cause for alarm.

THE press despatches state that the flood caused terrible destruction at Lawrenceburg, Ind. The waters broke through the river banks flooding the town to such an extent that more than two thousand people were driven from their homes. Without a sufficient supply of food, and exposure to the inclement weather has brought much misery and suffering. The loss of property will be at least three hundred thousand dollars.

JUSTICE, it appears, is at last to be done to Gen. Fitz John Porter, of the army. It is now announced that the President and Cabinet have decided in favor of his restoration to the army, with the rank of Colonel. The question of back pay has not yet been settled and is now before the Attorney General for his opinion. If paid in full it will amount to about $115,000, which is a small recompense for the suffering General Porter has been subjected to through the injustice done him. When restored to the army, and all his disabilities have been removed, he will probably ask to be placed upon the list of retired officers.

"The Shot-Gun Policy."

THE calumnious charge against a worthy professional class, embodied in the subjoined extract, did not originate, as some persons might suppose with a Bourbon or Democratic organ in the South, but first appeared in the Atlantic Monthly—the ablest and toniest exponent of Radicalism in the North. It is taken from an article in the February number entitled "Studies in the South."

"After supper the woman went away with the baby, and as we rose from the table I saw a double-barreled shot-gun standing in the corner of the room, and inquired whether there was much game in that part of the country. 'Dat ain't fuk no game. Dat's fuh dem damned niggah preachers.' 'What's the matter with the preachers?' 'Spase I want 'em comin' 'roun' hyuh to see my wife, when I's 'way from home? De low-down hogs! Dey makes de livin' gwan 'roun' an' eat de 'n' eat de 'n' dey fool de whimmen twel dey hain't no sense.' 'Would you not allow a preacher to come to your house?' 'Let him wait twel I axes de pleasuh ob his comp'ny, I done tol' em all 'roun' hyuh, I let 'em know when I wants 'em. My wife b'long to me, an' I's gwan to luk out fuh dem slick honn's wiv dat shot-gun.'"

This man's description applies justly to some of the colored preachers in most parts of the South. They are ignorant, fat, lazy, and licentious. Many of them use intoxicating liquors freely. The influence of such men is of course a curse to the colored people, and is the cause of much immorality among the married women who are members of the "colored churches." But it would be most unjust to allow my readers to infer that colored ministers generally belong to this class. Here, as in description of all classes of people in the South, discrimination is necessary.

Thousands of men are on constant guard along the levees between Memphis and Vicksburg, using every possible means to strengthen their power of resistance, and elevate their crests to prevent the water from inundating the whole country. The whole shore line between Memphis and Vicksburg on the Mississippi side, and the whole eastern shore of Arkansas are either under water or threatened with inundation. The waste of property by the great submersion is outside the limits of present computation. Navigation of the river itself is regarded by steamboatmen as dangerous. Government lights along the river are maintained with admirable regularity. These lights prove of incalculable benefit to steamboatmen now since all bank marks have disappeared.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, phimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

FRIDAY EVENING, FEB. 24, 1882.

THE C. & M. we counted dead,
Is now alive and kicking,
And for the campaign coming on,
Has set its triggers clicking.
The aid it asks is moderate,
And please remember, sonny,
We've got to skin around a bit,
And whoop it up the money.

The river rose about three inches last night and is still coming up though slowly.

A SMOKE house filled with meat belonging to Thomas Bayless, of the Slack neighborhood, burned Monday night.

The select masquerade ball by the East End Cornet and Reed Band will take place to-night at Amazon Hall. The arrangements have been well made and the outlook is that it will be a most pleasant affair. An invitation to be present is acknowledged by the BULLETIN.

A MAN who gave his name as Adam Smith and his residence as Higginsport, Ohio, was arrested by marshal Ed. Fitzgerald, this morning, on the charge of having endeavored to pass a twenty dollar counterfeit bill at the establishments of Hechinger Bros. & Co and Mrs. A. J. Williams. The sum of three hundred and four dollars and seventy cents in good money and the counterfeit twenty dollar note were found on his person. He gave bail in the sum of two hundred dollars and was released from custody.

ELLIS STICKS.

Adheres to His Second Confession and Evidently has More to Tell.

LEXINGTON, KY., February 24, 1882.—George Ellis holds to his second confession as the truth, and still declares that he had no knowledge of the murder and that his implication of Neal and Craft was made through fear. He seems to be very uneasy and restless and evidently has something upon his mind that has not been divulged. It is probable he will make a further confession.

Pickett vs. Moran.

Dropping into the office of Major Pickett to-day, the BULLETIN reporter found him surrounded by his attorneys, busily engaged preparing his case against Moran, and as determined as ever to recover that hickory tree. Our representative timidly suggested that he had been sent to interview the Major upon the subject of his suit, when that gentleman, wiping the perspiration from his troubled brow, said: "You newspaper fellows have got this thing confoundedly mixed, and are a set of blundering idiots—from the best of you down your'e n. g.—young man n. g. do you hear?"

The young man man feeling for his scalp heard, and suddenly remembered an engagement he had down street, but the Major getting between him and the door continued:

"I'll have that tree or ber-lud, yes, by Joe, or ber-lud. Listen to me young man listen—by the beard, of old Nakomis, by those pictures on the walls, I will make your eyeballs glisten when my—" Here the Major's voice died into a whisper but catching his breath he added:

"John Stevens is in it too; and the fact is he and Bill Moran carried that tree off, yes sir, carried it off, but sir—"

Our young man noticed that the top of Major's head was getting white and finding the door barricaded made his exit through the window, and failed to catch the Major's concluding remarks, but as a large inkstand struck him in the back as he went through the window, he judged it must have been somewhat emphatic.

An Act to Authorize the City of Maysville to Subscribe and Pay for Stock in the Columbus and Maysville Railroad Company.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the Board of Councilmen of the city of Maysville, a majority of the members elected concurring, shall have power and authority to subscribe in the name and on behalf of said city, for stock in the Columbus and Maysville Railroad Company, any sum not exceeding seventy-five thousand dollars; Provided, That no such subscription shall be made until after the question shall be submitted to the qualified voters of said city, and a majority of all the votes cast shall be in favor of such subscription. The Board of Councilmen shall designate the time when said election shall be held and make such orders in relation to public notice of the election and all other matters in relation thereto as shall, in their judgment, be necessary to obtain a fair expression of the popular will upon the question. In the exercise of their discretion the council may at any time, order said election, and it shall be their duty to order it whenever the petition of one-fourth of the voters of said city shall require it.

SEC. 2. That said subscription of stock, when made shall be under the charter or rights granted to said railroad company by the Legislature of Kentucky, to receive stock and extend the road into and to operate same within the city of Maysville; and shall not be payable until the road is completed into and within the city of Maysville, as stipulated and accepted by the Board of Councilmen at which time the subscription is to be paid in cash and for which the city shall receive stock in said railroad company.

SEC. 3. That to enable the city to pay said subscription, the Board of Councilmen shall have power and authority to issue the bonds of the city, at a rate of interest not exceeding 6 per cent per annum, payable annually or semi-annually, and sell the same at not less than par; the bonds to be for such amount and to run for such length of time as the council, in their discretion shall determine.

SEC. 4. That it shall be the duty of the Board of Councilmen, each year, to levy and collect a tax to pay the interest on said bonds, and they may, in their discretion, levy and collect a tax sufficient to pay off the bonds and the interest within a certain number of years, not exceeding fifty cents on the one hundred dollars of taxable property, in any one year. This shall be levied and collected, at the same time and in the same way and under the same responsibilities as the other taxes of the city are levied and collected; and the official bonds of the Treasurer and Marshals and Deputy Marshals shall be made and taken to cover this and each of their duties, under this act, the same as they now cover their duties under the charter and ordinances of the city; and the city council and the said collecting officers shall have the same powers of enforcing collection and payment of said taxes, as they now have for enforcing the collection and payment of the other taxes of the city, and a failure by the Board of Councilmen to do what is required of them under this section, shall subject the members thereof to the same liabilities as are incurred under the act amending the City Charter, approved February 13, 1863.

SEC. 5. That the taxes thus levied and collected shall be set apart, pledged and exclusively appropriated to the purposes for which they are levied and for no other purpose whatever.

SEC. 6. That the failure of the popular vote to authorize the said subscription of the stock shall not prevent a subsequent submission of the question in the same manner by the City Council, or with such additional conditions as they may deem proper to the subscription of stock in said company, provided, that not more than two elections shall be ordered.

SEC. 7. That this act shall be in force from and after its passage.

Sickness a Disgrace.

All bodily ailments are more or less appeals for help; nor can we doubt in what that help should consist. The more fully we understand the nature of any disease, the more clearly we see that the discovery of the cause means the discovery of the cure. Many sicknesses are caused by poisons, foisted upon the system under the name of tonic beverages or remedial drugs; the only cure is to chew the poison. Others, by habits more or less at variance with the health laws of nature. To cure such we have to reform our habits. There is nothing accidental, and rarely anything inevitable, about a disease; we can safely assume that nine out of ten complaints have been caused and can be cured by the sufferers (or their nurses) themselves. "God made man upright." Every prostrating malady is a deviation from the state of nature. The infant, "mewling and puking in its nurse's arms," is an abnormal phenomenon.

Infancy should be a period of exceptional health; the young of other creatures are healthier, as well as prettier, purer and merrier than the adults, yet the childhood years of the human animal are the years of sorest sickness; statistics show that among the Caucasian races men of 30 have more hope to reach a good old age than a new-born child has to reach the end of its second year. The reason is this: The health-theories of the average Christian man and woman are so egregiously wrong that only the opposition of their better instincts helps them—against their conscience, as it were—to maintain the struggle for a tolerable existence with anything like success, while the helpless infant has to conform to those theories—with the above result.—Popular Science Monthly.

The Peanut.

The peanut is the fruit of a plant common in warm countries. It is sometimes called the ground pea and ground or earth nut, and in the Southern States the goober or goober nut. Still another name for it is pindal or pinder, and in Western Africa it is called mandubi. The plant is a trailing vine, with small yellow flowers. After the flowers fall the flower stem grows longer, bends downward and the pod on the end forces itself into the ground, where it ripens.

Peanuts are raised in immense quantities on the west coast of Africa, in South America and in the Southern United States. The vines are dug with pronged hoes or forks, dried for a few days and then stacked for two weeks to cure. The pods are picked by hand from the vines, cleaned in a fanning mill, and sometimes bleached with sulphur, and packed in bags for market. Peanuts are sometimes eaten raw, but usually roasted or baked. In Africa and South America they form one of the chief articles of food. Large quantities of them are made into an oil much like olive oil, and which is used in the same way. It is also used in the manufacture of soap. A bushel of peanuts, when pressed cold, will make a gallon of oil. If heat is used, more oil is made, but it is not so good. In Spain peanuts are ground and mixed with chocolate. Peanut vines make good food for cattle.

The peanut gets its name from the shape of its pod, which is like that of the pea.

Plastic Metal.

A very useful material, which may be described as a metal paste, has recently been invented. It resembles ordinary white metal in appearance, such as is used for lining the bearings of axles in railway carriages or machinery, and it has a hard, close texture, capable of taking on a high polish. Nevertheless, it can be readily pasted on and spread over another metal by means of a hot soldering iron, and it adheres to its base with great tenacity. It fuses at a temperature of 450 degs. Fahr., and can therefore be readily melted over an ordinary fire. Containing, as it does, neither lead nor spelter zinc, it may be melted over and over again without deteriorating in quality, and this combination of useful properties must render it a very serviceable article in the colonies, where casting furnaces or other foundry appliances are few and far between.

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensible to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

THE CHEAPEST AND THE BEST.

THE ONLY PRACTICAL CASE.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rebalancing.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, addling, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Filler complete 65 Cents.

Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Filler complete 55 Cents.

Cardboard Filler for refilling 20 Cents. 15 per cent. discount on lots of 100 cases.

Batchelder's Egg Tester, setting 6 doz. at once, saves to buyers many times its cost each season. Price $3.00.

By special arrangements made by the manufacturers of this case most Railroads will receive them as fourth class freight.

The 18 dozen case made especially for Farmers' use, sent to any address by express, with out mailing, with full directions for setting up, on receipt of 50 cents. Every Farmer and consumer should have one of these cases, it will save its cost every month. Agents wanted in every county. Address,
